

International Association for Food Protection®

Food Safety Innovation Award

The Food Safety Innovation Award is presented to an IAFP Member or organization for creating a new idea, practice, or product that has had a positive impact on food safety, thus, improving public health and the quality of life. The purpose of this award is to recognize individuals or teams that have made an innovative contribution to food safety and to encourage other professionals to search for creative solutions. Change that promotes or improves food safety is the foundation of this award. The award consists of a plaque and a $2,500 honorarium sponsored by Walmart.

Qualifications for nominees

- The primary inventor or at least one team member of the invention team must be an IAFP Member in good standing at the time of nomination and during the IAFP Annual Meeting (when receiving the award)
- The individual or organization being recognized must be the primary contributor or sole developer of the innovation
- The individual or organization must have a demonstrable record of high personal standards and professional ethics
- Previous recipients of the Food Safety Innovation Award, IAFP Executive Board Members, and IAFP Awards Committee Members are not eligible.

Criteria for nominations

Please provide specific information on the following:

- The innovation (new idea, practice, or product) that promotes or improves food safety. Provide a thorough description of the innovation, an explanation of its benefits and how the innovation is used or applied.
- The uniqueness of the innovation or the significance of the change. Provide an understanding of the uniqueness of the innovation by explaining how it has filled a particular void or changed thinking, practices, processes, or procedures.
- The impact (results) the innovation has had on food safety. Provide an explanation with examples of how the innovation has advanced or is advancing food safety and public health.
- The adoption or adaptation of the innovation by other professionals or organizations. Provide specific examples of how other professionals, organizations, and institutions have adopted or endorsed the innovation.
- The recognition of the innovation by peers or in industry publications. Provide examples of how the benefits of the innovation have been recognized by peers and industry publications.

Additional points to consider under the criteria for evaluating nominee

- Participation in IAFP Activities
Provide membership history and listing of past and present involvement in IAFP committees and PDGs, Annual Meeting attendance and program participation (e.g. speaker, symposium organizer, etc) and other IAFP activities.
- Timeliness of innovation
The innovation must be considered new or current having been created within the past 3 years.
- Peer assessment
Provide no less than two and no more than three letters of support* from professional peers in addition to a nomination cover letter.

Submitting nominations

Supporting documentation covering the above criteria should be submitted with a nomination letter,* letters of support,* and completed Award Nomination Form. A checklist and instructions for the number of copies required, submission address, and deadlines can be found on the Award Nomination Form.

Note: The award winner and/or their employer cannot use the Food Safety Innovation Award in any advertising, packaging, or promotional material in connection with the innovation except with written permission by IAFP.

Nomination letter and letters of support cannot be from a current IAFP Board Member*