Affiliate Membership Achievement Award

How did your Affiliate grow AND retain members during the past year? Please provide details on:

You may cut and paste copy in the space below or use a separate page if necessary; please limit your explanation to 500 words or less in 12 point type.

2018 brought continued revitalization of the Georgia Association for Food Protection (GAFP) with an emphasis on recruiting and retaining members by providing the best experience possible. The board sought to expand GAFP's reach through a strategic collaboration with another local organization, the Georgia Food Safety Task Force (GAFSTF). Given the similar objectives of both organizations, leadership from GAFP and GAFSTF joined forces to host the first ever joint meeting in the fall of 2018. The results of these efforts are as follows:

2018 Achievements

- The 2017 GAFP membership survey identified meeting location and attendee experience as primary factors motivating attendance. Therefore, considerable steps were taken to ensure desirable locations for educational meetings. Both 2018 meetings featured companies from the Georgia beverage industry to provide memorable experiences: The Coca-Cola Company Headquarters and Sweetwater Brewing Company, both in Atlanta, GA. Highlights from the meetings included a tour of the Coca-Cola campus, as well as a tour of Sweetwater Brewing Company's facility and a complimentary beer tasting following the meeting.
- Emphasis was placed on providing members exposure to leading food safety professionals, at both a local and national level, through invited talks and panel sessions on timely issues.
 - The spring meeting welcomed the Drs. Donald Zink (IEH Consulting) and Benjamin Chapman (NCSU), in addition to local speakers, Dan Anderson (Coca-Cola Company), Robin Peterson (Microcos), and Dr. Manpreet Singh (UGA).
 - The fall meeting provided members with regulatory updates from the Georgia Department of Agriculture (Natalie Adan/Krissa Jones), Georgia Rapid Response Team (Brandon Saucedo), Georgia Department of Public Health (Galen Baxter), and FDA (Ingrid Zambrana), talks from GAFP Student Award Winners (Katherine Wakeley, George Afari, Chase Golden), Dr. Aaron Pleitner (Food Safety Net Services) and Matthew Burnstein (Sweetwater Brewing Company), and a timely panel discussion on the Georgia response to the E. coli O157:H7 romaine lettuce outbreak with representatives from CDC (Colin Basler), Georgia Department of Agriculture (Brandon Saucedo), Cobb/Douglas Public Health Department (Karen Gulley), FDA (Ingrid Zambrana), Kroger (John Szymanski), and Georgia Department of Public Health (Hope Dishman).

- Efforts to announce the date and location of future meetings at the current gathering, in addition to providing 6 weeks advance notice for meeting registration have significantly increased membership engagement. Both 2018 meetings reached capacity (>90 attendees) in unprecedented timeframes, both well in advance of registration deadlines.

Membership recruitment/engagement

- As result of the GAFP-GAFSTF joint meeting, GAFP recruited 60 new members.
- 2018 set attendance records for both the spring and fall educational meetings, a combined 184 attendees.
- GAFP membership increased 34% from 2017.
- Developing our future food safety leaders through student involvement is a top priority for GAFP. GAFP offers three competitive student scholarships annually to travel to the IAFP Annual Meeting. Award winners are invited to present at the fall educational meeting. In 2018 GAFP recruited a student liaison to participate in board and committee meetings to drive efforts to engage GAFP student members. As a result in 2018, GAFP added 6 new student members.

Best Overall Affiliate Meeting Award

Did your Affiliate hold an outstanding self-sustainable (not sponsored/co-sponsored by IAFFP) food protection meeting which you consider 'over and above' those normally held? If so, provide the following details, if applicable, on what led to a highly successful meeting:

- Type of meeting and the value it brought to Affiliate Members/attendees (does not need to be your Annual Meeting);
- Mission statement for meeting (if relevant);
- Content;
- Numbers of attendees:
 - Number of and overall percentage of Affiliate Members (for example, 100 total attendees with 75 of them being Affiliate Members = 75%)
 - Number of Guests (non-dues-paying Affiliate Members) and their affiliation to the Affiliate Chapter and/or meeting's topic(s)
- Audience participation (through roundtable discussions, exercises, etc.);
- Topics:
 - Agenda (you may include a printed copy with your award application)
- Speakers and their employer affiliations (if available);
- Sponsors;
- Diversity of meeting participants (range of sectors represented, i.e., students, academia, extension, government, NGO, industry representatives, etc., which can be broken down into services, i.e., retail, education, research, manufacturing, etc., if available); and
- Other information.

GAFP held two educational meetings in 2018, attracting a combined 184 members. While our February meeting at Coca-Cola Headquarters was undoubtedly a success attracting 94 members to hear a range of educational topics, we believe our Fall Meeting is a strong contender for this award. For this meeting we partnered with the Georgia Food Safety Task Force (GAFSTF) to host a collaborative educational meeting at Sweetwater Brewing Company in September, 2018. This meeting produced added value to our members, many of whom are active in both organizations, by combining what is normally two events into a joint meeting.

We published promotional material six weeks in advance of the meeting including the schedule of events (see below). When we opened ticket sales for the meeting, we filled capacity in <3 days and filled a waiting list of >10 individuals. Ultimately this meeting attracted 90 participants (30 existing members and 60 of new to our organization). The majority of the meeting attendees were from industry (55%) and Government (33%), however, Academics (4%), Students (8%), and Extension (1%) were also represented.

Due to the increased demand for this meeting we made a high quality recording available to GAFP and GaFSTF members so individuals who could not make the meeting in person or were on the waiting list could benefit from the educational content.

The GAFP-GAFSTF meeting featured regulatory updates from Georgia food safety and public health officials, research updates from student members receiving the 2018 GAFP

Jim Ayres Young Investigator Award, in addition to other educational presentations. We also presented long-time and highly active IAFFP and GAFFP member, Tori Stivers with the inaugural GAFFP Honorary Lifetime Achievement Award.

One of the highly anticipated aspects of the meeting was a panel discussion on the E. coli O157:H7 outbreak associated with romaine lettuce. This panel consisted of national, state, and local officials in addition to industry representation. This aspect of the meeting attracted much participation from the audience in the form of questions and comments for the panel. Post-meeting feedback surveys indicated that this was a highly successful part of the meeting. As a result, we intend to include this feature in future meetings.

We concluded the meeting with a complimentary brewery tour and beer tasting. This also gave people an opportunity catch up with colleagues and network with new connections. While some members had to depart when the meeting concluded to beat rush-hour Atlanta traffic, many members stayed long after the meeting had officially ended to catch up with friends and co-workers which is a testament to the quality of the meeting and our membership.

A post-meeting survey indicated that the premier joint GAFFP-GAFSTF meeting was a huge success. 61% of survey participants gave this meeting the highest possible rating of "5" or "excellent" with 29% rating it a "4", and 10% considering it a "3". Additionally, this terrific meeting would not have been possible without support from our 2018-2019 Sponsors: Coca-Cola, Chemstar, Decon7, ITW Pro Brands, Kroger, Sweetwater Brewing Company and Victory Processing.

C.B. Shogren Memorial Award

How did your Affiliate demonstrate exceptional overall achievement during the past year in promoting the mission of IAFP ("To provide food safety professionals worldwide with a forum to exchange information on protecting the food supply")? "Overall achievement" should encompass at least several of the following activities/accomplishments of your Affiliate during 2018:

- Exceptional achievement in membership;
- Types and effectiveness of communication and education;
- Awards and scholarships presented;
- Attendance numbers at meetings;
- Collaboration with other professional organizations;
- donations to the IAFP Foundation; and
- Representation at the IAFP Affiliate Council Meeting (held during IAFP Annual Meeting); and
- Other pertinent information.

While not a requirement, strong consideration will be given to an Affiliate whose officers (beyond the requirement for the President and Delegate) are also IAFP Members. Provide a description and include any supporting documents. You may cut and paste copy in the space below or use separate pages if necessary; please limit your explanation to 1,000 words or less in 12 point type.

The Georgia Association for Food Protection (GAFP) is a strong contender for the C.B. Shogren Memorial Award, given our collective achievements in 2018. Our affiliate had a record-breaking year, enrolling 104 new members with a record 184 individuals attending GAFP meetings. This represents more than double the number of meeting attendees, when compared with our affiliate's attendance in 2017. Efforts to announce the date and location of future meetings at current meetings, in addition to providing 6 weeks advance notice for meeting registration significantly increased attendance and membership engagement in 2018. Both meetings (spring and fall) reached capacity in unprecedented timeframes, both well in advance of registration deadlines. Quarterly newsletters provide members updates about events, area workshops, and noteworthy information, in addition to job postings and award opportunities.

Our efforts to advance the mission of IAFP by providing food safety professionals with a forum to exchange information on protecting the food supply was accomplished two-fold in 2018. Firstly, through intentional planning to expose GAFP members to leading national and local food safety experts, and secondly, through strategic collaboration with other local food safety organizations. Focused planning of educational meetings paid dividends in 2018 as members heard talks from renowned food safety experts. Speaker highlights from 2018 meetings included a talk on environmental monitoring from Dr. Donald Zink (IEH Consulting), Dr. Benjamin Chapman (NSCU) speaking about food safety consumer messaging and celebrity-perpetuated misinformation, and a lively panel on the 2018 E. coli O157:H7 outbreak from romaine lettuce featuring representatives from the Centers for Disease Control & Prevention, US Food and Drug Administration, Georgia Department of Agriculture, Georgia Department of Public Health, Kroger, and local public health officials. The outbreak panel at fall meeting attracted so much participation from the audience in the form of questions and comments for the panel that we intend to include panel sessions in future meetings.

For the first time in our known history, GAFP collaborated with another local food safety organization, The Georgia Food Safety Task Force, to host a joint educational meeting. The mission of GAFSTF is to establish better lines of communication between all stakeholders - including federal, state, industry, and local agencies - to ensure effective and efficient response to food defense and food safety issues, waterborne hazards, and other public health problems. As a result of the collaboration, GAFP members heard a wealth of regulatory updates from Georgia Departments of Agriculture and Public Health, in addition to contributing members to the outbreak panel discussion. Overall, as a result of the joint fall meeting hosted in collaboration with GAFSTF, GAFP recruited 60 new members.

GAFP continues to have active delegate representation and participation in the IAFP Affiliate Council Meeting. Following in the previous delegate, Tori Stivers' footsteps, IAFP Delegate Wendy White and GAFP Secretary Jessica Chen, represented GAFP at the 2018 Affiliate Council Meeting. Wendy and Jessica provided updates on GAFP's 2017-2018 activities and took note of ideas from other affiliates. They also participated in brainstorming activities to identify ways to expand membership and continue to add value for our affiliates' members.

GAFP presented 4 awards in 2018, including an inaugural GAFP Honorary Lifetime Achievement Award. The Honorary Lifetime Membership Award is bestowed to a small but very distinguished group of individuals who have been recognized for providing a significant period of years of continuous and extraordinary service to the organization. Tori Stivers was awarded with the GAFP Lifetime Achievement Award during the fall 2018 GAFP meeting. Tori served as the GAFP President from 1998-1999 and GAFP Delegate for 12 years, afterwards. She has also represented our affiliate by serving on the IAFP Executive Board as Affiliate Council Chairperson in 2013. Tori has been a strong advocate of and for GAFP, especially through some trying times. Without her guidance, support, and leadership our affiliate would have lapsed into inactive status. Her passion for food safety education inspires our entire membership, and we are so grateful for her expertise and for her continued involvement.

Additionally, we awarded 3 students with the Jim Ayres Young Investigator Award. This award is a long-time tradition at GAFP, which honors Dr. Jim Ayres, an inspired mentor and long-time member. Current Georgia student members submit research abstracts in hopes of winning one of three awards (First = $1,000, Second = $500, Third = $250); A travel stipend to attend the IAFP Annual Conference and an invitation to present their research at the subsequent fall GAFP meeting. The three recipients of the 2018 Jim Ayres Young Investigator Award included: Katherine Wakeley (First Place) for her research, "Detection of Protozoan Parasites in Surface Irrigation Waters using Water and Biofilm Sampling Methods", George Afari (Second Place) for his research, "A Meta-Analysis on the Effectiveness of Electrolyzed Water Treatments in Reducing and Inactivating Foodborne Pathogens on Different Foods", and Chase Golden (Third Place) for his research, "Predictive model for growth of Bacillus cereus during cooling of cooked rice". Each 2018 award winner shows promise as a future food safety professional and we look forward to following their successes as developing food safety professionals.

In conclusion, GAFP has had a phenomenal year, producing two fantastic meetings with exciting programs (see below) both with record breaking attendance. For the first time we collaborated with another area food safety organization to host an educational meeting. These efforts attracted 104 new members to our organization. We engaged our student members through our Jim Ayres Young Investigator Award program and awarded our first ever Honorary Lifetime Membership Award. Due to our numerous accomplishments, we submit for consideration our application for the C.B. Shogren Memorial Award.
